The Red Cross Drive.

The Red Cross Drive has come to a successful conclusion. Again it has been demonstrated that people of Didsbury and district realize, in a practical way, the need for funds will increase as the war continues.

The amount raised during the drive up to the present time is $4,078.00 but it is well to know the Red Cross books are never closed to donations and that the need for funds will increase as the war continues.

The Committee wish to thank the public for their generous response and especially the canvasser who so willingly gave of their time and efforts to bring the drive to such a successful conclusion.

Large Municipality Change Name.

The approval of the Minister of Municipal Affairs to the change of name from Dog Pound Municipal District No. 280, was read at the meeting of the Council held at Didsbury on March 20 and 21.

The question of location of the municipal office was introduced and Mayor Mills and Councillor Foster, of Carstairs, presented a proposition for the establishment of the office at Carstairs. There was considerable discussion and a final motion was passed that the office be located at Didsbury for the duration or for at least two years, and that during that period the council do not consider any building.

A motion was passed that bank accounts be opened at the Bank of Montreal and the Treasury Branch, Olds; Royal Bank, Didsbury; Bank of Montreal, Carstairs; and Bank of Commerce Crossfield.

It was agreed that the bank loan account be divided: 50% to the Bank of Montreal and 25% each to the Royal Bank and the Bank of Commerce.

Arrangements were made to provided for a temporary loan of $35,000.00.

The secretary was instructed to make application for a Government grant of $20,000.00 for use on market roads. He was also instructed to write the Department of Public works as to the possibility of renting a gravel crusher.

An application was made to the Department for the replacement and repair of several bridges. A resolution was passed adopting all by-laws at present in force in the four districts.

A by-law was passed, subject to the approval of the Minister, bringing into force the Tax Consolidation act for 1944, to apply only when arrears of taxes are paid in full.

Reeve Hogg and Councillors Trimble, Fox, and McCullough were appointed representatives to the Rosebud Health Unit.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Rupp and Mr. and Mrs. Hogg were appointed to the Didsbury Hospital Board.

It was decided to make arrangements with dealers in Gopher Poison, whereby the Municipality will supply an equal amount of poison to that purchased by the farmer. The arrangement will remain in force until July 1st.

A resolution was passed to purchase a Burroughs accounting machine.

A grant of $20.00 per month was made to the local Rating Board.

Mr. G. B. Hunter was appointed assessor for 1944.

The following rates of pay for road work was adopted:

Single man, 50c per hour
Teams, 20c per hour
Local foremen, 60c per hour

Speedier War Movement with New C.P.R. Signal System

THE new, electric automatic-block signal system installed at a cost of more than $1,100,000 between Chapleau and Schreiber on the Canadian Pacific Railway's Algoma district in northern Ontario ensures speedier and more effective operation of trains over these important 250 miles of single track. A typical yard installation pictured above, is the east switch of the White River yard with Number Four (the Vancouver-Toronto) train leaving the station on the main line.

In getting vital war loads of freight and passengers through on time the importance of this installation cannot be overestimated. The actual territory it serves is the White River subdivision, the 130 miles from Chapleau to White River, and the Heron Bay subdivision, the 120 miles from White River to Heron Bay. The wheels and rails automatically operate the signals in three colors—red (stop), yellow (stop at next signal) and green (proceed).

The new signal system represents the very latest development in this type of railway equipment, according to W. M. Neal, C.B.E., the vice-president, who made the announcement of the system's opening in March.

Man and team on 4-horse drag, 40c per mile travelled Man and 6 horses on drag, 50c per mile travelled

Tractor on 3-blade drag or 10-inch blade, 50c per mile travelled

Tractor on 12-ft. blade and drag, 65c per mile travelled

Tractors only: small, $1.25 per hour; medium, $1.50 per hour; large, $1.75 per hour

A motion was passed to offer the Olds General Hospital building for sale and that the proceeds of the sale be handed to the Olds Municipal Hospital District, towards the building of a nurse's home, providing that the Town of Olds will make a grant of one third of the amount for the same purpose.

Mr. Frank Hesselton was appointed supervisor of grader crews and machinery, and instructions were given to have the machinery put in repair at once.

Evangelical Church Honors Retiring Superintendent

Members of the Evangelical Sunday School spent a very pleasant evening in the church basement on March 21, in honor of the retiring superintendent, Mr. H. M. Reiber, who has been in that office for the past 27 years and who was so well fitted for the office because of his experience and personality. It was a surprise, for over 100 members were present. Rev. A. Amacher presided.

Mr. D. Dippel, in a few words, stressed the thought to keep on the same as ever, as Mr. Reiber was still needed in the work.

An interesting feature was Mr. J. V. Berscht giving a report of the Sunday School 27 years ago, and brought back many familiar names of officers, teachers and scholars numbering 117 at that time, and one could see the progress made during Mr. Reiber's term in office.

Mr. Doris Wilson made a few remarks that he remembered Mr. Reiber 27 years ago, and gave a very interesting experience he had had with him. The new Superintendent, Mr. Ezra Dippel, also made very pleasing remarks concerning the retiring president.

The children sang their favorite song, "Jesus Loves Me"; the Albright Brotherhood sang, "Arise Ye Sons of Albright"; the Ladies Aid sang, "Let the Beauty of Jesus be seen in Me". The trio, sung by Wava Deadrick, Jean Lamont and Lydia Jansen, was much enjoyed, also a solo by Joan Berscht. The Fleck sisters favored the audience with a good song, and Vern Wrigglesworth gave a comic recitation. Mrs. Amacher acted as organist.

An address was read by Rev. A. M. Amacher, after which a fountain pen and pencil were presented to Mr. Reiber, the presentation being made by Mr. J. V. Berscht, and a basket of 27 red carnations, presented by little Pat Halliday and Marion Dickau, youngest members of the Sunday School, wishing Mr. Reiber many more years of health and happiness and service for the Master. Mr. Reiber thanked and appreciated the thoughtfulness of the members. Lunch was served.

We wish to congratulate the boys of the Didsbury "Hell Cats" who ran the skating rink this winter. The proceeds, which amounted to $15.00, was "not so hot", and were turned in to the Red Cross. We all know the boys worked hard and missed many valuable school hours on account of the rink. The young folks of Didsbury wish that, with the help of favorable weather, the rink next winter will be still better, although the rink this winter was greatly appreciated.

Mrs. H. Mortimer and Mrs. Blatchford were the winners of the War Savings Certificates in the "Smokes Draw". The drawing took place at the dance on Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Gulliver and Mrs. Morton spent several days in Edmonton last week.

Former Luxury Liner H.M.C.S. Prince David Ready To Take Her Part In Invasion Plans

THE one-time auxiliary cruiser, and one-time luxury liner, H.M.C.S. Prince David has had her face lifted again. But it's a strictly utilitarian job this time; no beauty parlor nonsense about it, and the fact of the once dazzling beauty that carried thousands of Canadians on pleasure cruises now wears a grim and forbidding look.

For you can't invade "Fortress Europe" with sun-deck bathing pools and creosote walnut paneling if you mean business . . . and the David had business in mind when she underwent the face-lifting job.

One look at the David today will convince you of that, and one look at her battle-tested ship's company will add to conviction the terrible certainty that she and her men have but one purpose in view: To fill successfully the role for which she was re-designed. To become the nerve centre of an amphibious expedition . . . the headquarters for an army of invasion.

When the David left the yards after her first operation, she had been stripped of her swimming pools, her gaily striped awnings and her glistening white paint. She was sleek and grey, an auxiliary cruiser of His Majesty's Royal Canadian Navy. Gone now, after her second treatment, are the spacious decks, the ample crew quarters and the comfortable wardroom. Her once wide decks are covered by an ordered clutter of massive davits and heavy hoisting machinery. Above them, slung by stout cables, are steel landing craft designed to speed men and equipment from ship to hostile beaches.

Below decks the change is even more apparent. She has been swept clean of the large cabins, the restful wardroom and the spacious crew quarters. In their place are all the accommodations needed by a self-contained amphibious invasion force. Not an inch has been wasted.

Long, streamlined messdecks are provided to feed seamen and army troops.

Fire being the greatest hazard met with on invasion operations, the David has been fireproofed from stem to stern, as completely as can be accomplished by modern science. Even the mattresses and the shower-bath curtains have been treated and the only wood in her are her cabin doors which have been purposely made of timber so that they can be broken down in an emergency to free trapped occupants.

To conserve life, a large and modern sick bay, fitted with an up-to-the-minute operating theatre, cots for patients and the very latest in equipment, has been provided between decks. Two Navy surgeons are members of the permanent complement and there are a number of sick bay attendants trained as aids to the doctors and capable of treating minor injuries.

Most of the David's officers and men are battle-tested. A few have never been to sea before, but the large majority have been seasoned at sea and in actual engagements.

Landing craft are carried and the officers and men who man them are veterans with more than a year's experience in combined operations work. Many have seen action, both at Dapoz and on the invasion beaches of Sicily and North Africa.

A Man-Sized Job

Being Done On Northumberland Farm By Young English Girl

A 16-year-old English girl, Dulcie Scott, is running an 80-acre Northumberland farm that has a herd of 19 dairy cattle, seven calves, two horses, two pigs, and 50 chickens. Her assistant is a 19-year-old Land Army girl, who had lived in the city all her life. Here is Dulcie Scott's timetable: Up at 4:30 a.m., horses fed, barns cleaned, cows fed and milked, milk delivered to crossroads for pick-up, calves, pigs and poultry fed before breakfast at 9 a.m. After that, she says, "the day's work begins," which includes ploughing, cleaning milking machines, taking animals and produce to market and other routine farm chores, repeating the morning's schedule at 3 p.m.

Grateful To Canada

People In Britain Appreciate Foodstuffs That Have Been Sent

The women of Britain with whom Miss Mary-Etta MacPherson, managing editor of Chateleine, came in contact during a two-month visit to the British Isles are keenly interested in all things Canadian, she told the Advertising and Sales Executives' Club of Montreal. They are very grateful for the foodstuffs that Canada has been sending over to help them maintain a standard of living that enabled them to do their full part in the war. That they were doing this there was no doubt, women were doing the hardest kinds of jobs with grim determination, and Miss MacPherson said it was a wonderful privilege to have the opportunity of meeting them and seeing for herself the things of which she had heard.

"There is no war weariness in Britain," she declared, "but there is a tremendously sturdy fighting spirit among the civilians as well as in the services, an indomitable quality about the ordinary people in Britain, who are willing to do anything as long as they think there is 'fair play'."

Miss MacPherson spoke about the humor of the British women workers, which persisted despite the blackout and the curtailment of social life, and then described the high place Canadians have in their esteem. "Any Canadian over there can feel intensely proud about being a Canadian," she remarked. The speaker mentioned that the British people were particularly grateful to Canada for sending over tinned salmon, and they were greatly interested in the fact that young women could get university education on the same footing as men in Canada. Miss MacPherson contrasted the life of the British working classes with those of this country, remarking that no provision had been made for garages in 50,000 new houses that had been built. People over there were surprised, she said, that in Canada many workers of this class would have family cars. She told her audience of some of the ingenious devices in English homes for utilizing the heat from the living room fireplaces, hot water being piped through to the boiler in the kitchen, and even to the kitchen ovens for baking. —Montreal Star.

Rescued

When the motor of his fighter plane "cranked out" over the Pacific recently, Pilot Officer F. D. Hague of London, Ont. (top above), was unable to use his parachute and had to "ditch" his aircraft. It fell into the icy water west of Vancouver island and sank almost immediately. P.O. Hague managed to release his tiny self-inflating dinghy, unhook his harness, struggle to the surface and clamber in. Fortunately for him, Pilot Officer Wilkie of Vancouver, in another aircraft, saw him forced into the sea and directed an air-sea R.C.A.F. crash boat, (below), to the spot. About an hour after his plane sank, P.O. Hague was hauled in warm blankets, speeding toward shore.

As Victory Salute

Churchill Prefers Ringing Of Bells To Hear Of Gun

Prime Minister Churchill prefers the ringing of bells as a victory salute, rather than the roar of guns. To the proposal by Capt. Leonard P. Pluegge, Conservative, that cannon be sounded to commemorate major military successes, Mr. Churchill said:

"Personally, I favor bells. We are likely to hear quite enough of guns anyway."

Experts Agree That The Battle Of Berlin Will Stand As The Greatest Air Battle Of All Time

THE R.A.F. with its heavy ratio of Canadian and other dominion personnel, in addition to doing a lot of other things, is making Hitler's speeches easier for him. With the R.A.F.'s bomber command operating as it is now there is no need for Hitler to tell his Germans that this will be a hard year for them. The Germans, the record shows, learn the hard way, but if they do not know now that the Battle of Berlin is in full swing or how tough 1944 is shaping up, they will never know.

NEW NAZI BADGE

The Berlin radio in an apparent reference to operations against guerrillas in occupied countries said that Hitler has introduced a "game-fighting badge" for German soldiers who have taken part in such struggles.

As January waned, bombs crashed down on Germany at the rate of 160 tons of every hour of the clock, most of them on Berlin, black, smoldering and flaming and thoroughly disorganized, after three of bomber command's special doses in four nights.

After attack No. 13 on Berlin—No. 14 left the German capital virtually cut off from the outside world for a time—it was estimated in London that more than 250,000 British, Dominion and Allied airmen and airwomen at Britain's bases had so far been thrown into the fight.

Some experts figured the Battle of Berlin, at that point, might be considered half over, a thought which should make any Berliner tremble. No one doubted but the Battle of Berlin would stand as the biggest air battle of all time.

Some experts conceded that it may need 20,000 men and something like 20,000 sorties by Allied heavy bombers to win the battle. It may cost in round figures 6,000 men and 500 aircraft, the figures on personnel engaged including ground staffs, mechanics and armorers, bomb armorers and office staffs as well as the men who fly.

The aim of Bomber Command Chief Sir Arthur Harris' intention is to destroy Berlin as the nerve centre of the German war organization and to lay in ruins the city's great industrial plants which form a substantial part of the German war potential.

Perhaps half-way through this job of destruction the records showed more than 20,000 long tons of bombs had wiped out most government buildings and scores of important war plants.

Cost to the R.A.F. has been well under five per cent, for every 100 sent out and for every bomber lost the air force dropped nearly 60 tons of bombs.

Greatest cost has been in trained airmen, something like 3,000 men with wings while at this stage it has been impossible to assess the toll taken of German military personnel manning ground, gun, batteries and searchlights, many crews of which have been certainly wiped out in the saturation of bombs.

Kangaroos never stop growing during their lifetime.

WEST COAST "WIDS" READY FOR TROUBLE

Wherever you are, whatever you're doing, you wear your tin hat and respirator for a certain part of a certain day each week at one of the R.C.A.F.'s Pacific coast stations. Telephone operators suddenly sound as if they'd developed cleft palates. Stenographers catch up on typing practice as dictation is suspended until voices get out in the open once more. The airman who whips up a smart salute can accompany it with a rude face—no one in the wisser—and cooks can peel onions without a qualm. How the prevention program works is illustrated here. Leading Airwoman Betty Johnson of Winnipeg, left, finds that keeping her eyes on the noteblock has complications, but types bravely on. Even off duty, the girls don't let the drill interfere with their routine. Left to right (and their own families wouldn't know them) the crocodile players are Leading Airwoman Evelyn Dingman, Edmonton; Cpl. Jessie Cassidy, Bethany, Man.; AW1 Barbara Wilson, Saskatoon, and Cpl. Bernice Martin, St. Vital, Man.

EVERYONE HAS A JOB TO DO

On the Home Front too...

● When a gun goes into action every man has a job to do. Seconds count, and team work gets results.
Training... endless training... gets efficiency that makes each man part of a perfect machine.
But something more than efficiency is needed to make a top-notch fighting unit. There must be loyalty... that spirit of responsibility that each man feels toward his mates.
We've got efficiency on the farm front
... we've got it in the factory... we've help to do it. Keep up the teamwork that will make each one of us go all out to support our men on the fighting fronts.
We, too, are part of a fighting unit... citizens of a nation at war. We must not let our men on the fighting fronts down.

Invasion means high tension on the fighting fronts... combined operations
... thorough team work in every detail.
And that call for greater action comes back to us at home. We have a job to do here, too. We must all buy Victory our mates on the firing line. We can't let them down.

And the job that we are asked to do is save more and lend more to our country. We are asked to let our country

THERE ARE MANY REMINDERS at this time that we are living in a rapidly changing world. The war, with its great demands upon all our resources, has speeded up the rate of progress in many fields of endeavour. Science and medicine have made phenomenal advancement in the face of our enemies. The war has brought about a rapid development of many of our economic and social concepts. It is clear that the world will never again be as it was before the outbreak of the war and there is universal hope that the best of the benefits to mankind which have been brought into being to meet wartime emergencies, may be wisely used to make a better world for the future. The war has brought about a new realization that the world has, as it has always had, been the great value of our natural resources, and the importance of using them wisely and economically. Scientists tell us that the materials we would long ago have made many products from the waste products of our lumber industry, had they been in possession of the Canadian Forest Service. The war has also brought about a new realization that the waste products of our industries, which were formerly discarded and scientific thinking has thrown considerable light on this subject.

and for domestic use. In this connection, plastics have become well known as substitutes for metals, glass, and other essential materials. Although plastics are proving both useful and effective in many ways, scientists are not yet sure of their future in the automobile industry. Some experts have been forecast for them in the popular concept of the "car of the future." It has been pointed out that the word "plastic" is misleading, since it implies softness and malleability. On the contrary, there are plastics that are stronger than steel. They are being used in the construction of vehicles and other equipment. At the same time they are extremely light, which makes them valuable in substitution for metals in cases where lightness gives added speed. Transparent plastics have also replaced glass in many instances, since it has proven to be stronger, more resistant to heat, and shatterproof.

It is unlikely that they will ever become less important this year. We are told that Canada's export shipments of wheat have been larger since the war than before, and that domestic utilization of wheat has also been rising during the past four years. There is, too, no doubt of the importance of wheat as a part of the Canadian economy. It is one of the mainstays of the Canadian export trade with the rest of the world. It has frequently been suggested, however, that efforts be made to develop certain types of crops in the West for industrial purposes, and it has been recommended that research be done here in this connection. It is already known that oats, soy beans, and corn stalks are used in making such things as plastics, and that the use of these crops is increasing. It has also been suggested that rubber or water-proof materials might be developed from the gummy portions of some of our native plants grown here, and that science might find many uses for the straw from the wheat plants now frequently disposed of by burning. Canadian scientists are now giving much thought to these subjects and recommendations have been made from time to time before the war. It is possible that some of the most interesting developments along these lines tions. Made in Canada.

Q.—There was a good supply of canned milk in the stores this week, but he refused to sell it to me without coupons. Is this correct?

A. Yes, this is correct. . . effective November 29, 1942, sales of evaporated milk are prohibited in certain restricted areas except to holders of "G" coupons. "G" coupons for the purchase of this milk may be obtained for children under 12 years of age who require it in a formula, by applying to the Local ration Board. For persons over this age, applications must be accompanied by a medical certificate specifying the need.

Q.—My daughter became 12 years of age, December 17, 1943. How can I secure ten rations for her?

A.—As your daughter did not become 12 years of age before September 1, 1943, she will not be eligible for ten ration coupons until the next ration books are issued.

Q—How do I, as a farmer, go about getting lumber for use in repairs at the lower prices recently announced?

A.—Provided you do not receive lumber in excess of $200 in value, 10 per cent. in this bill will be deducted in your favor by your dealer, who will be repaid that sum in the form of a government subsidy. This arrangement applies only to sales of soft wood, laths, shingles and posts over $10 and under $200 in value. On sales over $200 the approval of the Timber Controller is required.

Q.—I work in a small town and recently purchased a trapping license. May I use this license to get ammunition for deer shooting?

A. No. When purchasing an munition as a licensed trapper you must sign a declaration to the effect that any ammunition you receive will be used only for trapping purposes. To use this ammunition for sporting purposes would be contrary to the regulations.

Q.—I expect a number of men to stay for some days on my farm while engaged in wood cutting. Can I secure extra rations for them?

A.—Yes. Extra rations for temporary help on farms during the winter months, where necessary, may be obtained by making application to your Local Ration Board, as was the case with temporary help during the harvesting season.

Please send your questions or your request for the pamphlet "Consumers' News" or the Black Book (the book in which you keep track of your ceiling prices) mentioning the name of this paper to: Wartime Prices and Trade Board, Regina, Saskatchewan.

Small Boy's Model Nearly Let Out

Jet Plane Secret

The secret of the jet-propelled plane very nearly leaked out—and all through a small boy with a mode

An officer somewhere in the Midlands came across a group of small boys playing with model planes. At first he watched with interest an

It was an excellent model of the secret jet-propelled plane of which the public then knew nothing. The officer confiscated the plane and questioned the boy's father. The father who had worked on Britain's "secret weapon," admitted thoughtlessly making a model for his son.

Argentina, Australia And Canada Have Surplus Wheat For Export

It is harvest time in Argentina, Australia and current estimates of the combined wheat crop total 388 million bushels, or approximately the amount produced by these two countries a year ago. The exportable surplus from such a crop would be 220 million bushels and this must be added to the carry-over of old wheat which amounts to 153 million bushels in Australia and 122 million bushels in Argentina. This makes a surplus over normal domestic requirements of approximately 500 million bushels available for export in 1944. When the surplus in Canada is added, the surplus available for export exceeds one billion bushels in three of the four major exporting countries.

Hitler Youth with Organization Trained To Join Army

A dispatch to the Swedish newspaper Nya Dagblätt Almqvists says that members of the Hitler Youth organization were being urged to join the German Army as volunteers.

This latest indication of the Reich's need for Army recruits came as the newspaper Aftonbladet said it had learned that 15-year-old members of the Hitler Youth were being trained in cavalry units for front-line service when they became sixteen.

Germany is organizing her cavalry in a move that apparently reflects the Russian effective use of mounted troops on the eastern front.

An old darkey who worked on a plantation was walking along a dusty road talking earnestly to himself.

"A neighbor called to him and said: 'Hey, there, Uncle Henry, why are you talking to yourself?'"

The darkey laid down his back and scratched his white head with the tips of his fingers.

"Fust," he replied, "fust, I like to hear a smart man talk, and next, I like to talk to a smart man."

Don't Let
 The Elevator Farm Service
 'Bugs' In The Grain Run

Seven or eight years ago, a distinguished authority on insects stated that, in Western Canada, we had never heard about insect damage in our stored grain. Most authorities are occasionally wrong,
 and he was no exception.

It is not our purpose to spread alarm, but merely to draw attention to the dangers involved at our disposal. In guarding against losses due to insects in farm stored grain, we have three potential allies.
 They are: a cold climate, a dry climate and a very efficient Division of Entomology in the Dominion Department of Agriculture. Despite these advantages losses have been suffered and will continue unless the necessary precautions are observed.

The best prevention against loss is storing only dry grain and keeping it dry by means of ventilated granaries which exclude rain and snow and which are constructed so as to provide an air space between the floor and the ground. As added insurance, it is wise to bin grain during cold weather or move it and, if possible clean it, during very cold weather.

If storing tough grain is unavoidable, it should be examined regularly and, at the first sign of heating or infestation by mites or insects, it should be run through a fanning mill, threshing machine or combine.

Scours In Small Pigs

Common scours, an ailment of suckling pigs, gives hog producers considerable trouble and may cause heavy losses in small pigs unless precautions are taken to prevent it.
 This ailment is most likely to affect winter and early spring-farrowed
 litters closely confined in dark,
 damp, and chilly buildings, says H.
 Wilson, Dominion Experimental Farm, Lacombe. When nursing pigs become chilled, an attack of scours is likely to result. In some instances the udder of the sow becomes affected with mastitis or garget, resulting in milk being secreted that is unhealthy for pigs. It usually causes fatal scouring, infection from germs which are commonly associated with filth is also responsible for digestive disturbances resulting in diarrhoea and other troubles.

However, over-feeding or sudden changes in the feed of the sow are probably the most important causes of pig scours. At the first sign of scours the sow's feed should be reduced one-half at least, and if she is receiving barley it should immediately be removed from her ration. A light, thin slop of shorts and lime-water makes the most satisfactory diet for the sow until the little pigs are better. It may be necessary to keep the sow on restricted rations for three or four days. Lime-water can be conveniently made by putting a half pound of quicklime into a pail of clean water, stirring it thoroughly while slaking is in progress, and then allowing the time to settle.

Removal of irritating substances from the bowels should be by the use of castor oil. Pigs that are less than one week old should be given a teaspoonful of castor oil, and those over a week old one tablespoonful. If the diarrhoea persists, small quantities of lime-water may be used to advantage. A tablespoonful administered to each little pig daily should be sufficient to alleviate the inflammation in the intestines.

C. P. R. TREASURER

J. A. DUNDAS, assistant to the vice-president of finance of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, Montreal, since 1932, was on February 14 named treasurer of the company by D. C. Coleman, the chairman and president. The new treasurer has been 37 years with the C.P.R.'s finance department and has served under all four of the company's financial vice-presidents—
 the late I. G. Ogden, John Leslie, E. E. Lloyd and L. B. Urwin, who is in charge of finance now. He is an authority on foreign exchange and in the fields of company
 finance and investment.

The best treatment will be of little value unless the pigs are immediately removed to clean, dry quarters.

If swine dysentery has become established in a herd, the pigs showing signs of sickness should be placed at once in another pen separate from the healthy ones. When any of the healthy group sicken,
 they should be removed.

First Objective

IN these decisive months all Canada's effort is concentrated on one great objective—
 the attack that is to destroy the Nazi menace and all that it represents. Years of work have gone into its preparation. The best of our young men are staking their lives on its success.

We in Canada must support and strengthen this attack with all our effort. This one purpose must command our work, our minds and our hearts.

We must not permit any scramble for private gain or individual selfish ends, to distract us from our main task. If we concentrate on seeking, individually or jointly, higher prices,

higher pay or higher profits, we shall be diverting our attention from the main task at this critical time. We shall also endanger the stability of prices which we in Canada have achieved after great difficulties—a stability that is essential to efficiency and fairness in war,
 and to peacetime prosperity afterward.

Our young men are fighting for a Canada and a world in which all men can have faith, hope and security. Each of them wants to come back to a job—or a farm—with a future. We at home must keep secure for them a strong and stable foundation on which alone a post-war period of promise and achievement can be built.

This advertisement is one of a series being issued by the Government of Canada to emphasize the importance of preventing further increases in the cost of living now and deflation later.

The Indian Army has been increased 12 times, the Royal Indian Navy 13 times, and the Indian Air Force 10 times the pre-war strength.

The Moscow-Leningrad railway has been restored and the first freight train recently made the journey between the two cities. It was announced.

In response to a Greek order for the conscription of all Greek citizens between 19 and 25 living in the Union, 60 men have enlisted in the Royal Hellenic air force in South Africa.

German nationals in occupied Czechoslovakia have been issued a gun and 25 cartridges for self-protection because "open resistance is constantly growing," a BBC broadcast to Europe says.

A French refugee in Chile is operating a seed farm near Santiago, producing the garden seeds preferred in western Europe; they are for post-war use in France and the Netherlands.

The United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration is undertaking its first functional operation; it was disclosed at Washington, by caring for European refugees in Egypt and Syria.

A. C. Bosson, London architect, said recently up to 10,000 workers will be released for work on war-damaged houses within about two months by the completion in Britain of several large public works.

Mouse traps are sold with mice in them to prove their efficiency in Nigeria, Africa.

Regional Counsel

DALTON O. OWENS, K.C.

has been appointed regional counsel for the Canadian National Railways, Western Region. Mr. Owens, formerly assistant regional counsel, succeeds Gilbert M. Hair, K.C., who has relinquished his position after more than 30 years as a member of the legal department of the Grand Trunk Pacific and Canadian National Railways. Mr. Hair will be retained as consulting counsel and will continue to make his headquarters in Winnipeg.

Mr. Owens studied law in Manitoba, and served overseas during World War I. He was called to the Manitoba Bar in 1918 and entered railway legal service later the same year. He is also a member of the bar of Saskatchewan. He was created a King's Counsel in 1935.

HOUSEBOY TO DOCTOR

Paper Claims Marry Deats Song Is Really Very Old

Kipling once pointed out that "When Homer wrote 'is blygmin' lyre, 'e'd 'eard men sing by land an' sea; an' what 'e thought 'e might require, 'e went an' took the same as me." So "new" songs are always under suspicion, and now it's "Marry deats and dozy deats and liddle lamzy dizey" which is attacked as a rewrite of something old, instead of a transcription of something sung by a modern child. Says the Peterborough Examiner: "That wheeze is at least a century old. We had it tried on us by aunts, who, in turn, had had it tried on them by aunts, who, in the dark backward and alaym of time, had suffered it from even more remote aunts. Their version was—Haresenay, Haresenay."

Sheepstacy which the acute reader will at once recognize as "Hares eat hay, mares eat hay, sheep eat ivy." All that's required to complete the picture is for someone to dig up the original of the marry deats music!—Toronto Star.

Woman Bell-Ringer

Has Held Job At Burlington, Ontario, For Ten Years

One woman with plenty of "time on her hands" is Mrs. William Wray, of New street, official bell-ringer for Burlington, Ontario, and one of the few women in Canada performing this task.

Four times a day, at 7 a.m., noon, 1 p.m. and 5 p.m., Mrs. Wray hauls lustily on the bell-pull. For this toil she receives $150 per annum, and come rain, snow, heat or sleet, for ten years she has given the bell-ringing signal as the clock strikes. Exceptions are Sundays and holidays, with the occasional time when Mr. Wray substitutes.

Mrs. Wray, who succeeded her mother, the late Mrs. Margaret Graham, at the duty, says that the work keeps her healthy. She claims that since she has been ringing bells she has had no illness. Neither has she failed to awaken in time to sound the 7 a.m. tocsin, she says. "Habit, mainly, I suppose," she says.

Are Really Heroes

Conscientious Objectors in Britain Have Most Dangerous Job

Britain's newest heroes are a select group of conscientious objectors. Fifty strong, these men, all of whom have refused to join any military service on religious grounds, have been formed into a special corps and now are serving as parachutists with Britain's airborne forces.

But they still don't fight. Their particular job is to drop, unarmed, with the paratroopers into enemy territory and there treat the wounded and attempt to get them to safety. They are attached to an R.A.M.C. unit, and the officer in charge described their job of parachuting unarmed into enemy country as "one of the most dangerous and difficult tasks of the war."

BAD LUCK FOR BOTH

In Washington, Dr. L. C. Spencer, scheduled to make a speech in Louisville, lost his plane seat to a colonel with a priority, cancelled his talk, flew home to Boston, and learned that the colonel had flown to Louisville just to hear him talk.

Boils of dead chieftains visit their relatives in the form of snakes, according to a superstition of some African natives.

PULPIT ON RAILS

In St. Catharines Church at Carleton Place, Cumberland, is a pulpit on rails: three rails let into the floor are the means of guiding the huge pulpit into the centre of the church, according to a letter to the editor of the London Field, who sent a photograph of it.

Budapest, Hungary, is a twin city—Buda on one side of the river and Pest on the other.

THE EXPLANATION

Bob Featherston of Lexington, Ky., was curious to know when and how he broke his watch crystal, and why it cracked in the form of a question mark. Jewellers found explanation did it, caused by placing the cold watch in a warm pocket.

Sure Of Victory

Canadian Servicemen Overseas Are Ready For The Fry

Foster Barclay, back in Ottawa after more than three years' service overseas as a Canadian Press war correspondent, said Canadian servicemen have shown that they know how to wield their weapons, and that "wherever you go nowadays" there is high praise for the three "patent" Canadian services.

The men overseas cannot say when the war will end, but they are sure of victory, Barclay said. "They would like to be home, too, but if you were to give them the choice of coming tomorrow or staying to the end you could bet they would want to continue."

"Even when a soldier is wounded, his first fear is that he may be knocked out for keeps..."

Pioneer In Plastics

Thirty-Five Years Ago Bakelite Brought Honor To Inventor

A generation has grown up to look on bakelite with no more curiosity than their forefathers looked on glass, yet this product, among the earliest of coal-tar chemical plastics, was sufficiently remarkable 35 years ago to bring honor to its inventor. In fact, it did more for Dr. Leo H. Baekeland, whose name is less familiar to the youngsters of today than are some of his inventions, was able to advance from the production of bakelite to the development of other valuable materials fashioned synthetically from chemicals and used in peace and war in combination with wood and countless other natural substances and manufactured products to make stronger, lighter, sturdier, household goods and electrical instruments. The scholarship which originally brought Dr. Baekeland to America from Belgium at 26 has had unusual consequences, the importance of which cannot be measured by the numerous honors that came to the chemist in his long and useful life in America—New York Sun.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

"The Blast-Out"

By LESLIE B. LUECK

McClure Newspaper Syndicate

Sheriff Matt Scott and his deputy, Pete Connelly, lounging in front of the county jail, weren't especially enjoying the shade. "I still say I'm right to lock up every bum that drifts through Keyport," the sheriff growled belligerently.

"You're a hard man," insisted the deputy. "Everybody says so. You even bully your daughter."

"Leave Diana out of this!" Scott retorted. He rose from the bench and went inside. Pete could hear his heavy steps halting in front of the kid's cell. Scott addressed the prisoner: "Are you willing to talk, Hale?" There was dead silence from the cell.

Pete almost jumped at the soft rustle of skirts behind him. Diana Scott bent her bright blond head close to Pete's ear and whispered, "I didn't dare tell Dad, but Terry Hale and I met while we were at State University. Terry was on his way to a city where he has a job waiting for him."

She stopped his question with a warning look. "You see," she gasped, "we're engaged." "We were going to run away—oh, yes!"

Terry whooped under his breath. "Hallelujah! Say I was beginning to think you were going to let your dad railroad you into marrying that oaf, George O'U."

Diana crimsoned enchantingly. Her violet eyes were stony. "Dad's all right—but this is love, Pete, wish us luck."

Some of her exhilaration died when she stepped into the jail. She had to help get Terry out, somehow! Aloud she coaxed softly. "Oh, why don't you let him go, Dad? He's done nothing wrong."

The prisoner, bronzed arms bulging through a torn shirt, gazed at her hungrily. Diana's heart skipped long beats. But Hale's voice was cool. "I guess the sheriff won't let me go until I tell him my home town so he can check up on me."

Diana tried to control her excitement. "That should be simple." "I can't tell," muttered the prisoner.

Sheriff Scott sneered. "You probably broke the law there. I've sent your finger prints and description to the local F.B.I. office." He wheeled on Diana. "Come along; we're going home."

That as her father stamped down the corridor, Diana managed to thrust a note through the bars and received one in exchange.

Sheriff Scott watched his daughter closely as she moved about the kitchen preparing their evening meal. "Diana," he ordered brusquely, "I forbid you to come around to the jail again. I don't like to have you speak to a common bum."

She dropped a frying pan. "But he's not a bum!" Scott ignored that.

Diana's knuckles whitened at a clumsy step on the porch. Every night for the past month that hated footstep had come at exactly seven. And every night she had to endure the same fantastic ritual that was about to take place.

"Come in, George!" bellowed Sheriff Scott heartily, as the door opened.

Loyal Allies

Ghurkas Of Nepal Helping To Fight Japs In Burma

The Gurkhas are about the toughest fighters in the world, as the Japs in Burma are now finding out. The British discovered it early in the last century, when they attempted to conquer Nepal. The Gurkhas licked them, then signed a treaty with them, and ever since they have been loyal allies. They did yeoman service in the Indian Mutiny and in the World War.

As jungle fighters the Japs are hush loggers compared to the jungle-bred Gurkhas.

Escort Carriers

Have Made Catapults For Protection Of Merchant Ships Necessary

Fitting aircraft catapults to merchantmen to provide protection from air attack has been discontinued because so many escort carriers have been added to the Royal Navy. It has been disclosed. In the early days of the war fleet air arm pilots were catapulted from merchantmen and after engaging enemy air craft had to crash in the sea if no land was near.
